Statement on outgoing State Director Sam McQuestin

I congratulate outgoing Tasmanian State Director Sam McQuestin on his appointment as State Director of the Victorian division of the Liberal Party.

Sam has been a formidable State Director of the Tasmanian division since his appointment in 2011 and has worked tirelessly to ensure two Liberal State and three Federal election victories, as well as strengthening the Party's grassroots organisation.

Sam leaves the Tasmanian division with a strong record of increased professionalism, majority governments and significant structural reform, including increased female Parliamentary representation.

The Tasmanian Liberal division is now a standout in the nation and the close relationships built with the Federal division has enabled Tasmanian voices to be prominent in our national leadership.

I look forward to working closely with Sam as he takes on a new challenge with his role in the Victorian division and thank his family for the sacrifices they have made and wish them well for the future.
